Who is providing this notice?

First America Bank

What we do

How does First America Bank protect my personal information?

To protect your personal information from unauthorized access and use, we use security measures that comply with federal law. These measures include computer safeguards and secured files and buildings.

We maintain physical, electronic and procedural safeguards that comply with federal standards to guard your personal information.

How does First America Bank collect my personal information?

We collect your personal information, for example, when you

- Open accounts or deposit money
- Pay your bills or conduct transactions, apply for a loan
- Provide identification information, use your credit or debit card

We also collect your personal information from others, such as credit bureaus, affiliates, or other companies.

Why can't I limit all sharing?

Federal law gives you the right to limit only

- sharing for affiliates' everyday business purposes—information about your creditworthiness
- affiliates from using your information to market to you
- sharing for non-affiliates to market to you

State laws and individual companies may give you additional rights to limit sharing.
